Dear Parents,

This week is National Teacher Appreciation week, which is a time to recognize teachers for their inspiring work and honor them for the dedication they show to their students every day. The Ringgold School District is filled with compassionate, talented, highly educated professionals who care deeply about our students.

Teachers in the Ringgold School District are guiding our students towards bright, successful futures. At times earlier this year, I had the privilege of visiting our buildings and I have witnessed firsthand the innovative, exciting and engaging lessons being taught by our teachers. Even during this unusual and challenging time as I visit 'virtual classrooms' it is abundantly clear that our teachers are committed to delivering the same level of high-quality instruction that our students are accustomed to receiving. It is an incredible thing to witness our students being genuinely excited about reading, finding a new passion for math, thoroughly engaged in science laboratory study, displaying their artistic and musical abilities and so much more. During the month of May, as we plan end of the year events that celebrate learning, we are reminded that these events would not happen without teachers.

Teaching is one of the most noble and important professions. Most of us can quickly call to mind one of many educators who have made a positive impact in our lives. During this week, National Teacher Appreciation Week, I encourage you to join me in taking a moment to send an email to an educator who has made a difference in your life, or in the life of your child.

As always, I thank each of you for your support as we continue to move our District forward.

Best Regards,

Randall Skrinjorich
Acting Superintendent
